Harry Tucker.

The fellow who makes himself solid with the girls with bunches of datales in the spring, ice cream in the summer, with a trolley ride thrown in, and writes her sweet notes at other seasons, and then backs up at Christmas time, is a menace to the welfare and prosperity of the young man, who is seriously humuling for a piece of apron string to the himself to for life.

The young fellow who is shut out by the Shines all year, and who would be as happy as Hoedigan to have a girl at Christmas to give something to, has to go off somewhere and fill up on egg-nog and things, and get discharged from his boarding house because he sleeps with his shoes on

We know this from experience, and we feel in a good position to talk to the girls in a heart to heart sort of way.

We had lots of presents to give out this year, but we couldn't find a girl that didn't give us the ley chill when we spoke to her, and now we have made up our mind to be a Shine.

For the Shines get along good with the girls eleven months in the year, anyway, and it don't cost much, too.

way, and it don't cost much, too.

It's up to the girls after Friday.

Leap year comes but once every now mad then, and we hope the usual chances will be taken.

The court clerks and the hack drivers have got to do something for a living, and every marriage puts something in their pockets.

So we hope the girls will start out early, and we are going to stand right; up at the head of the class.

If we had about $100 or its equivalent in small change, we think we could like ourself on an even basis to start in the "Les Debats," Paris, publishes the story of a remarkshie success n piptography achieved by M. Touchet, who has already photographed objects by the light of Venus and Jupiter. It is said that M. Touchet has now succeeded in obtaining a photograph by the light of Sirius, the most brilliant of all the stars.

He used an ordinary camera, but attached to the objective a cardboard tube, to the end of which he affixed a brooch. The light of the star was concentrated by a powerful lens upon the brooch and an exposure of an hour and five minutes was given.
